NEW MEXICO'S LAW FRAMERS TAKE BRIEF REST

Convention Adjourns Until Thursday, When Committee Will Report.

Santa Fe, N. M., Oct. 18.—Because the preliminary work is being done largely by committees, the constitutional convention has adjourned until Thursday. The committee of judiciary has decided to retain the grand jury and probate system.

The principal feature of the convention Monday was the adoption of a resolution expressing deep regret at the death of senator Dolliver and extending the condolence of the convention to the widow and surviving members of the Dolliver family. H. B. Ferguson, a former congressman, eloquently eulogized the dead senator and predicted that his closing speech on the tariff question would one day be as cherished by the American people as Lincoln's Gettysburg speech.

A number of files, or suggestions for the constitution were submitted by delegates. Most of them referred to the initiative and referendum and the election of United States senators by direct vote.

Monday was day day at the convention and many of the delegates announced their intention of keeping their first checks as souvenirs and not cashing them. The committees are still working and expect to finish in their work within the next few days.

Split Over Texas Claim.

There is irreconcilable difference in the committee on boundaries over the definition of the boundary between New Mexico and Texas. The latter state claims a strip of land half a mile wide and 200 miles long in New Mexico, while New Mexico will claim a similar strip now in Texas.

Non-Sectarian Schools.

The committee on education has drafted its provisions which provide for a non-sectarian public school system, with compulsory education and a minimum term of six months for each school district. School funds are to be invested in state, county and municipal bonds and the failure to produce school funds when demanded shall be prima facie evidence of embezzlement and to be regarded as a felony. No separate schools are to be maintained on account of color, language or religious belief and an appointive state board of education is provided for. Text books are not to be changed oftener than once in four years.
